NEGUS NOT DOWNHEARTED

"CHINA MAIL" SPECIAL

Rome, To-day. The story of the fall of Sassabaneh is told vividly in a telegram from Marshal Badoglio, published as War Bulletin No. 199, reading: "The powerful defence line from Sassabaneh to Bullale, designed and built by Belgian and Turkish officers and defended stubbornly and courageously by the Abyssinian troops under Ras Nasibou, was taken by storm by General Graziani's troops. Sassabaneh and Bullale were both occupied on Wednesday afternoon. The various troop catagories and Blackshirts as well as militia contingents, also the native Somali troops, tried to outdo one another in daring and determination in fighting against a foe that had made up his mind to defend himself to the last.

"On the northern front the advance to Addis Ababa is continuing. The forces pressing forward from Lake Tsana have occupied Debra Tabor, chief town of the Begemeder region, formerly the headquarters of Ras Kassa." — Trans-Ocean Service.

Rome, To-day. Italian machine-guns mounted on lorries and 30 bombing planes, each carrying a ton of bombs, are taking a heavy toll of the Abyssinians fleeing up the Jijiga road after the Italian capture of the "Hindenburg Line." The planes, after dropping bombs, return to the base at Gorahai for more.

Little opposition to the Italian advance is now foreseen until it reaches a line about 10 miles in front of the Harrar-Jijiga and Jijiga-Berbera roads, 85 miles beyond Daggahbur. It is believed that 'Ras Nassibou has strongly fortified this line, the loss of which would mean the cutting of the Ethiopian communications with Berbera, from where he has been receiving supplies of munitions and stores.-Reuter. NEGUS IN GOOD SPIRITS Paris: The mystery of the whereabouts of the Emperor of Ethiopia since the defeat of his army on the northern front has been solved. According to message received from Addis Ababa it is reported that he arrived at the capital yesterday afternoon. It is said that the Negus was in good spirits, and declared that the Italian advance was far from entailing a decisive victory for Italy .- Reuter's Bul-

LEAGUE CARD OPENS UNDER CLÖUD

K.C.C.'S UNACCOUNTABLE COLLAPSE

(By "Skip")

THE Lawn Bowls season certainly began under a cloud last Saturday, only half the matches being played! The heavy shower just before 11 a.m. caused several matches to be cancelled, which was most unfortunate so early in the season. There does not appear to be any ruling or precedent as to what time a match may be cancelled by the home team, and it is not unusual for a team to travel on a useless journey.

I understand that this happened last year. A team was informed at 2.50 p.m., by a reliable member of a club that the match was on, but on arrival at the ground were informed that a higher authority had cancelled the match! It seems unfortunate that there is no time limit for making a decision, and I make the suggestion that the H.K.L.B.A. notify clubs that a decision must be definitely reached by 1.30 p.m.

When clubs in Kowloon as well as Happy Valley are able to the Kowloon Indians Tennis Club, carry out their fixtures, it would appear that some of the other which was to have been played matches were cancelled too hastily. I am only generalising of yesterday, has been postponed till (Club. 4.45 p.m.) course, and have no information that any particular ground was to-morrow on the Marina ground fit for play after the match had been called off. But, to get down to the games

The Police should score against the K.C.C., and I think the Indians, in spite of their inauspicious start, should have a little in hand against the uncertain Kowloon Dock team.

It will be interesting to see how Taikoo fare now that they are back "where they belong," and I have visions of their staging a real comeback and upsetting some of the big noises.

It looks like five home wins, in football parlance, in the Second Division, although the Footballers' first string may cause an upset at King's Park, where they meet Recreio juniors. The following are selected teams

Royal Engineers Win Two Games

IN JAVA

Singapore, April 23. The reigning S.A.F.A. league champions, the Royal Engineers returned from their Java football tour this morning. They played six matches in twelve days, won two of these and lost the other four. All the players were enthusiastic about their tour. Staff Sergeant Rogers, the centre-half and skipper of the R. E. First Division side, said: "We had an excellent time and could not have been better treated anywhere in the world."

"At present the standard of football in Java is much higher than that in Singapore," continued Sergeant Rogers. "All the Batavia teams we met would heat a full strength Singapore XI. The crowds know the game and were very sporting and the standard of refereeing is high." -Straits Times.

If you can accept the Cosmo Hamilton story that Katharine Hepburn, in male attire, can be mistaken for a man by people as close to her as her travelling companions, "Sylvia Scarlett" is good entertainment. As onlookers you will probably notice the famous Hepburn "swish" even though she appears quite mannish at times; but not-so-keen observers like Cary Grant and Brian Ahearne accept her as one of them till she appears in garments usually associated with her sex.

The story tells how the heroine, her father (Edmund Gwenn). Cary Grant and a servant girl (Dennie Moore) tour the countryside in extremely amateur theatricals. Heroine meets handsome then the fun begins. Most of the critical think Cary Grant steals This is from the well-known the acting honours- as the "Cockstage play "Is Zat So?" SCREEN ASPIRANT'S ADVENTURES

"PICTURE EXECUTIVES WERE DOPES"

Our vote for the all-time classic newspaper interview with a disillusioned screen aspirant goes to Joseph Mitchell's account; for the Scripps-Howard papers of the brilliant remarks of Barbara Blair, noted by Mr. Mitchell on Miss Blair's return to New York from Hollywood. Evidently Miss Blair went back to Broadway unlike any of her predecessors—she was sadder, but no wiser. Reported Mr. Mitchell:

"Earbara Blair was not polite to Hollywood. She thought the majority of picture executives were FRENCH DEMOCRACY dones, and told them so. She insulted producers, and they kept her on the pay-roll, paying her $1,500 a week. "I say, darling, I've got it!"
"Jack! What?"

"To begin with, let me say this. It's your fault that we're faced with losing Arthur."

"My fault? Are—are you mad,

"Never more sane. It's your fault, I say. Arthur's been with us ever since our marriage, and you've appeared to him as a model of what a wife should be.

"You're a charming, softspoken, good-tempered young woman, who has made my life Paradise. That's why Arthur has reconsidered his verdict upon the opposite sex.

"Now if he'd seen you as he's going to see you, as a scolding

"Oh, Jack!" Her eyes shone with hope; no longer did she sit huddled in her chair.

"From to-night on he must see you—or, rather, hear you—in your true colours."

"Yes, yes. I see. Jack, how marvellous!"

"He must learn that we've deceived him all this time; that, far from being a happily-married man, I am the victim of your secret spleen.

"That's good, don't you think? Secret spleen. Distinctly good! He must overhear you giving me Hades—this very night, and at intervals during the next few days."

"Jack, it sounds splendid, but will he believe—"

"Trust me, dear. It'll all be done so convincingly. He'll believe all right! We'll start rehearsing right away. This is his night out, I know. He'll be in by ten."

"It'll be after ten now he's got a girl."

He chuckled.

"When he comes in—you know how quietly he comes—he'll hear something that'll put him off matrimony once and for all see if it doesn't!"

"With your brain, darling, we'll be in Harley Street before you can say 'knife!' " cried Norah joyfully, jumping up and throwing her arms round him.

It so happened therefore that when Arthur, who was always trusted with the key of the front-door, let himself into the doctor's house that night, and walked towards the study door, he heard sounds that caused him to stand transfixed—his pale, timid eyes starting, his mouth wide open, his fresh colour fied.

"Now that there's no chance of Arthur hearing"—Norah's voice was saying, a voice vibrating with scorn—"I can speak out. I tell you, I'm just sick to death of it

"Heavens, the strain that it is to pretend day after day, that this ghastly marriage of ours is a success while all the time—"

"Don't talk so loudly, if you have have any pride left," muttered the doctor, wretchedly.

"I'ride!" The voice of his usually gentle mistress was so shrill and ugly that Arthur gasped as he crouched by the study door.

"All these years I've sacrified everything to pride! I'm sick of it; pretending before Arthur, before our friends. Sick too, of the life here!

"You know how I hate the country, how I never wanted to leave London. The idea of me, with my looks, my cleverness, married to a twopenny-ha'penny little country doctor who'll never get on, never make any money!

"Sometimes the misery and monotony of my life makes me want to shriek. ... " Her voice rose alarmingly, and the listener outside the door shrank at the sound.

"And I have to keep it all a secret because of Arthur—because you can't bear people to know how hadly we get on. I can act of course. All women can act. I know that everybody is taken in by our pretence, but—"

"For heaven's sake, Norsh!"
pleaded the doctor's voice: "sup-

"I'm sick of considering Arthur.

I tell you, I can't stand life down here much longer. Would I have left home, where I had at least congenial society, in a town, with concerts and cinemas and so forth, to come to this God-forsaken village if I'd known what I was in for? Mother tried to warn me,

North! Your tongue's runhing away with you. You simply don't know what you're saying." (Continued on Page 13)

James Cagney, Pat O'Brien. Frank McHugh, Allen Jenkins and Olivia de Haviland in "The Irish in Us" is followed by Dick Fowell, Joan Blondell, Adolphe Menjou and the Mills Brothers in "Broadway Gondolier." A musical with an interesting story, lots of laughs an exceptionally fine cast and tuneful numbers. Should be seen at least twice.

'If you are wise you will wend your way "Orientalwards" on May to see, just once more. "Top Hat" featuring the inimitable Rogers and Astaire. needs no boosting, but is a show to be seen again to thoroughly enjoy its innumerable delights. The Rogers-Astaire duo are still un beatable in their way. Then come Wheeler and Woolsey in "The Rainmakers," . which is a typical piece of fooling in the usual rather nonsensical story. A runaway train sequence provides the amusing thrill. Dorothy Lee is chief among the support. All due at the Oriental.

Star

George Arliss in "The Last Gentleman," the whimsical, tender type of part in which he excels. Unusual ending to an interesting story perfectly acted by all.

Followed by Joe E. Brown. Olivia de Haviland, Roscoe Karns and Ruth Donnelly in "Alibi Ike." baseball background rather landicaps this picture anywhere except in the United States and Japan. Not very new material. but if you like Joe E. Brown you will be sure to see this.

The picture which follows. Accent on Youth," is only for one day. Sylvia Sydney and Herbert Marshall in a flimsy comedy.

Gary Cooper and Anne Harding in "Peter Ibbetson" are next on the programme. This du Maurier romance is perfectly acted, but as sadness predominates beginning and ending in dire tragedy, it hardly holds universal appeal. Worth seeing once, because of the exquisite character-studies by the two stars.

Majestic

"Baboona" is a smoothly-contrived jungle film refreshingly free from fangs and fights. Aeroplane shots reveal new aspects of the jungle, with the famous Mr. and Mrs. Martin Johnson in their two planes. There are no animal fights and therefore nothing to distress tender-hearted animal-lovers. Worth seeing, as it shows the jungle in its true perspective.

Another of the famous "Charlie Chan" series follows this, wherein Warner Oland again demonstrates his undoubted ability."

"Murder on a Honeymoon' gives a splendid chance to that delightful comedienne. Edna May Oliver, sharing the big scenes with Jimmy Gleason. Here is comedy mixed with melodrama and, though the plot is slightly muddled, Miss Oliver as the amateur detective and Jimmy Gleason as the rea one make it an enjoyable show.

"The Bohemian Girl," with Stan Laurel and Oliver Hardy, will be shown to-morrow at the King's and Alhambra Theatres.

Charlie Chaplin in "Modern Times," coming shortly to the King's Theatre.
